....From out of the past...

Radio died young--it was only 25 years old. But to those of us who still remember the joys of listening to such shows as The Shadow, The Lone Ranger, Tom Mix, Captain Midnight, Inner Sanctum, The Aldrich Family, The Whistler, and so many more, radio will always be alive.

Radio was a do-it-yourself television. The actors provided all the words and your mind all the pictures. If you wanted the hero to look young and handsome he did, if you wanted the villain to be eerie and grotesque he did--because you were in complete control of the image. Moreover, radio writers took full advantage of this by developing recurring events in many shows that helped further these images. For example, all of us remember the famous closet in the home of Fibber McGee and Molly. Every time that door opened we saw our own hall closet opening to eject its contents. When the creaking door opened on Inner Sanctum we often pulled back, sometimes in fear, because it made us think of a haunted house of evil. When the train roared by on The Mysterious Traveler we felt that we were on that car riding along with this man of mystery.

We looked forward to hearing our favorite character voices each week on our favorite programs--The Mad Russian on Eddie Cantor, Digger O'Dell on the Life of Riley, Senator Claghorn on the Fred Allen Show, Mr. Whimple on Fibber McGee and Molly, Mr. Kitzel on the Jack Benny Show, and Peavey on the Great Gildersleeve.

Commercials played a large part, too. Remember, "Lux presents... Hollywood," J-e-l-l-o, Wheaties, Cheerios, and some of the ones that are no longer around like Blue Coal, Kellogg's Pep, Swan soap, Woodbury soap, and Lin-x Home Brighteners.

There were serials for adults as well as kids, ("Life Can be Beautiful," "Whose that little chatter box...") mysteries, ("Lights Out...Everybody") comedies, ("Oh Andy, I'm Regusted") music, ("In first place this week on Your Lucky Strike Hit Parade is...") quiz shows, ("I have a lady in the balcony, doctor...") news ("Good evening Ladies and Gentlemen and all the ships at sea...") and talk shows ("For my first exclusive..."). Who wouldn't give anything to be able to relive the best part of his youth.

Here, listed on the following pages, are some of these great moments as I remember them, as they actually happened, and as I have been able to collect them. I hope you will enjoy them as much as I do.

... And now a word from our sponsor...

Commercials are regarded by many television viewers as annoying and unnecessary bits of information added to an otherwise good program. In old radio, however, this is not the case. Listeners enjoy recalling those products of the past and hearing how some of the products that are still popular today were described years ago. Therefore, shows listed in this catalog contain the commercials of the program and these are included in each description. In a few cases, someone along the line has cut some of them out and if so this is noted by the phrase no commercials.

However, there are a few legitimate exceptions to this general statement. Programs that are marked syndicated are those sold to individual radio stations. These do not normally contain commercials because each station added its own. In a few cases my copy came from a local area and those commercials are left in my copy.

Shows marked sustaining also do not have commercials because these were not meant to be sponsored. Nor will shows marked AFRS, standing for Armed Forces Radio Service. These shows are ones that were redone by the Army for troops overseas. An AFRS show is exactly as heard in America, but was rebroadcast at a later date without the original commercials. Some AFRS programs were not rebroadcast, but instead were original performances and never contained commercials.

Finally, the term reissue is also used in this catalog. This term describes several series of programs that have been recently revised on current local stations. They usually contain no commercials, although in a few, the local commercials was left intact. Among such groups are The Shadow, The Green Hornet, The Lone Ranger, and Gangbusters. In some cases I have been able to obtain the original show with commercials as well as the reissued show. These differences are described under each show listing.

... Every second counts.....

Times listed for each show are approximate and are based on the original time for which the programs were written. In the case of the 1/2-hour reissues the time is closer to 25 minutes. This is also true for shows that do not have their original commercials. All shows have complete story lines, unless otherwise noted. In a few cases I have listed excerpts and skits. Some of these come from commercials records that are no longer available and these are so labeled.

Broadcast dates listed are based on verified information--usually obtained from studio records. However, if you know of any errors please let me know.

... Rating the shows...

A most touchy subject among collectors is the rating of a show's audio quality. Everyone wants the best possible quality he can get, but this is not always available. We tend to base the quality against today's broadcast standards and often forget the age of these shows. However, most collectors have worked out a rating scheme that fits their definitions and after reviewing them you will quickly see that none are standard. I prefer to follow the one listed below as it is the one most often adopted.

High fidelity---excellent condition with a full frequency range.

Excellent-----perfect audio with no audible defects.

Very good-----contains only a minor defect such as surface scratch or slight distortion. Usually it is hardly noticeable, but not perfect audio quality.

Good-----contains one or more noticeable audio faults, but not serious enough to make listening to the show a chore. Some of the more common faults are hum, whistle, dropouts, bassy, and hiss.

Fair or listenable--contains serious defects and is recommended to only a diehard enthusiast.

.....A word to the wise.....

Starting your collection is not always easy, especially when you have nothing to offer. For you I have always felt sympathetic because I was once out there too. But there is hope for even you--some people may lend you a few shows to get you started, or you may be able to purchase some old discs from an old bookstore--if you can find a source. But if all else fails there is always someone who will sell you some shows---WATCH OUT !!!

I know people who sell--at all kinds of wholesale prices--but I only know one whose quality is recommended. Since no free dishes are given away on this program I will not mention his name. My advice is to set your standards high early in the game or you will regret it later. Unless you are a diehard enthusiast only go after the very good or excellent condition shows. These have the highest trade value. Learn to judge your fellow trader's recording ability and be honest about your own audio quality. Deal with only people you can rely upon. If a show does not live up to the original rating send it back. Sometimes the master was rated correctly but the copy was not made correctly.

As for myself I do not sell shows--I only trade. All my shows are traded on an equal time basis.

All shows done for me are on Scotch 175, a 1.5-mil mylar tape of 1200 foot length, or Scotch 150, a 1-mil mylar tape of 1800 foot length. The latter is for shows longer than 1 hour. Any equivalent substitutes may be used with my permission. I prefer my shows recorded on a half-track machine at 7.5 ips, but I will accept a quarter-track machine at the same speed if that is all that is available. Speeds of 3-3/4 ips are second choice and usually is decided on based on the material available. In cases where Scotch is not the desired tape of the other party I will consent to exchange blank rolls.

On trades with new contacts I always limit the first exchange to 2 hours. This gives each of us a chance to get to know the other and minimizes the amount of material with which you will be stuck.

There will be many disappointments as you deal from collector to collector but most can be avoided with a simple postal card. For example, if you find that the quality of a show is not up to your listing, drop the other guy a line before you record the show for him and tell him what's wrong. Give him an opportunity to make another choice rather than have to send it back to you at a later date. Don't take it for granted that his tastes are less critical than yours. After the shows are mailed drop him a card and let him know when they were mailed. This enables him to judge when to expect them, but it also alerts him to start on your shows if he hasn't recorded them yet.

Some of the things that I find intollerable are shows that have hum, whistle, hiss, drop outs, volume-level differences, run too fast, run too slow, wow, flutter, no openings, no closings, cut-out commercials, phoney openings attached to phoney shows, and shows that start on one track of a tape and are broken in a bad spot of the story, and then continued on the other side of the tape without at least repeating the last line. I would like to be told about any of these features before someone records a show for me because I will only send this back and drop the collector from my list.

Another thing that bothers me very much is mislabeled titles or show descriptions because this usually causes you to wind up with many duplicates.

I am always interested in better copies of shows I have, and would appreciate collectors letting me know if they have any.

That's just about it----so here's the list and let's start trading.

THE SHADOW

"The Shadow, mysterious character who aids the forces of law and order, is in reality Lamont Cranston, wealthy young man-about-town. Several years ago in the Orient, Cranston learned a strange and mysterious secret...the hypnotic power to cloud men's minds so they cannot see him. Cranston's friend and companion, the lovely Margo Lane, is the only person who knows to whom the voice of the invisible Shadow belongs. Today's drama..."

COLLECTOR'S NOTE: The following Shadow programs were all recorded from the original discs. The two shows with Orson Welles were from a group he recorded during the summer of 1938 for Blue Coal. B.F. Goodrich had dropped the sponsorship that year and Blue Coal had picked it up. During that summer Orson Welles was preparing to leave the show to do the Mercury Theatre, so he prerecorded several shows for Blue Coal until Bill Johnstone could take over the part.

Some of the other shows do not have commercials. The disc had space for a commercial insert, which was done live. In dubbing these I did not leave the space.

A few shows were used in the reissued group but the original organ music was cut out and an overdubbed music inserted. On all of these the original organ music appears.
